BLOCKADE AND SIEGE OF GIBRALTAR.

By Captain J. Dainkwares, of the late 72d Regiment, or Royal Manchelter Voluntees.

This work will comprehend a regular detail of every military and naval operation which occurred during that tedlous though glorious epoch, from the commencement of the war in 1779 to fome months fucceeding the peace in 1783.

The manufcript has been corrected from the observations of several Gentlemen, who acted in the first public capacities in the garifon: and many officers of diffinguished rank and eminent professional abilities; prefent at the siege, have already honoured the publication with their sanc-fent at the fiege, have already honoured the publication with their fanction and support.

The Journal will be prefaced with a discription and historical account of that important place from the zera of its being fortified by the Moors, with the revolutions it has undergone, to the present time; occasionally interspersed with many entertaining genuine anecdotes, and illustrated by sen folio descriptive plans and picturesque views, elegantly engraved by celebrated artists from original drawings, taken and finished at Gibraltar by the author, who was present the whole period,

The Lands and estate of SAUCHIE, CHARTERISHAIL, and TOUCHGORME, lying in the parish of St Ninians, and thire of Stirling, and within three miles of the town of Stirling. The barony of Sauchie holds of the Cown, and affords above five freehold qualifications to vote for a member of Parliament. The other lands hold of a subject superior for payment of a small seaduty. This estate contains

The present rent of the lands is above 1200 l. Sterling per annum; but many of the leases are already out, several expire at Martinmas next, and others in the 1787, for most of which very considerable rises of rent have been offered, upon the farms being inclosed; and all of them are capable of great improvement, there being lime to be had on every corner of the clate. There is also a lime-work in the propietor's possession, where the demand for lime has hitherto been much greater than could be answered; but the shen being now wrought by mining, any quantity can now be turned ont, so that there is the greatest probability that this work will soon become a very valuable article, as there is coal in the neighbourhood, and a great appearance of coal upon the lands.

The VILLA of NORTH MERCHISTONE.

The VII.LA of NORTH MERCHISTONE.

To be SOLD by public roup, upon Wednefday the 10th day of August next, between the hours of four and fix in the afternoon, within the Exchange Coffeehouse in Edinburgh,

The pleasant and agreeable VII.LA of NORTH MERCHISTONE, in the parish of St Cuthbert's or West Kirk, and county of Mid-Lonhian. It lies upon the Glasgow and Slatesoord roads, along which there is a stretch of above 2800 feet, whereof upwards of soo is a fruit-wall. It is within twenty minutes walk of the Cross of Edinburgh, and consists of 35 acres, I rood, I fall Scots measure, all lying contiguous, incloided with stone walls, and subdivided with hedges and sunk sences. The whole of the plantations are in a very thriving condition, and many of the trees instanced and graves where it is a very thriving condition, and many of the trees instanced and in the different prospects, which are delightful. There is a fine piece of water of near an acre, and a command of water sunning through the ground, which may be encreased, as there is a power of collecting all the springs in the park of Old Merchistone. There is easy and free access by tumpike roads both to the east and west; and there is also a power of having an access to the fouth by Bruntssied Links and Barrowmuirhead.

The House confidence a ball of the stream of the state of the state of having an access to the fouth by Bruntssieid Links and Barrownuirhead.

The House consists of a hall, a dining-room, drawing-room, six bedrooms with closets, house-keeper's room, kitchen, scullery, servants-room, cellars, pantry, and garrets with servants beds. And the offices consist of milk-house, laundry, washing-house, two stables, whereas the one contains two, and the other three horses, with a curn chamber over head, a coachhouse, hea-house, farm servants house, a work-horse stable that will contain twelve horses, two byres for two cows each, three detached necessary houses, a barn with a catacombed cellar at one end of it, and a granary and servants-room overhead, a shed in the hay-yard, and a granary house, a barn with a catacombed cellar at one end of it, and a granary house at the gate. There is also a neat Temple at the top of the ground, built of hewn stone and properly finished, from the platform roof of which, a beautiful view is got of the grounds themselves, and a most extensive prospect of the castle and city of Edinburgh, of the Frith of Forth, coast of Fife, and of all the country round.

The vicinity of these grounds to the city of Edinburgh, renders them useful and valuable in every respect; and the distance from the New Town is considerably shortened, and the access to it greatly improved by the Lothian road, and will be still more so by other roads that will soon be made in its neighbourhood, and by the South Bridge across the Cowgata.

The ground that lies to the south of the Glasgow and states ord roads, consisting of s acres, 3 roods, 14 falls, is a proper situation for another villa, or may be feued out for small houses and yards to great advantage; and will likewise answer for washing and drying linen, as there is a constant spring of water that runs through it, and is very substantially inclosed with a stone and line wall.

The lands are held of two different superiors for a sen-duty of 54 l. 2 s. 6 d. The entries of an heir and singular successor are taxed.

There is a proportio

There is a proportion of feat-room in the West Church, which has been lately rebuilt.

The articles and conditions of fale, and plan and measurement of the grounds, to be seen in the hands of Mr William Lesse writer to the fignet, to whom, or to Mr Beatton at Lochgellie near Kinghorn, proposals may be made for a private bargain.

The house may be seen on Tuesdays and Fridays, between twelve and two o'clock, till the sale; and John Inch, the overseer, will show the grounds every lawful day.

The Solicitor-General having moved for the first reading of the London We woinflet no further fleps ought to be taken in the bufiness, before a lift had been laid before Parliament of all the public houses in the places where the grievances in queftion had been flated to be fo alarming. There were a fet of houses, he faid, under the denomination of night houses, which ferved as a receptacle for the villains who diffurb the public peace: All fuch, in his opinion, ought to be suppressed.

The bill was read for the first time, and ordered to be print-

Mr Dempfler moved, that a petition, which he had prefented on a former day, might be received into a Committee of the whole House on Wednesday next, which was agreed to

He then moved, that the hawkers and pedlars thould be heard by themselves or counsel in the Committee on the bill respecting them. Mr Dempster stated, that these men were much aggreed by certain regulations which had lately taken place. Their licenses had expired on the 24th of this month; and by an order of Government, no licenses were to be iffined for an indefinite time. At present, therefore, they were without licenses, as well as without the means of obtaining them. While their profession remained thus abolished not by law, they had a right to request licenses. They had applied to the officers from whom they were most likely to obtain them, and having there been told that none were to be had, in this dilemma they had applied to him for advice, and the answer he gave them was, to protest against the answer which they had receiwed.

Mr Honeywood and Mr Robinson infinuated, the too much indulgence had been shown to Scotland by the prefent regulawhich had not extended to that country.

The Attorney-General and Mr Dempfter made it appear, that Scotland, in the instance in question, had had nothing done for its advantage, more than bare justice. Had the du ty to be imposed on pedlars been a new duty, it might have extended to the northern parts of the kingdom; but being merely an addition to an old one, it could not extend to a class of men who had before felt no fuch duty.

Sir James Johnstone, and some other gentlemen, spoke a few words.

The Attorney-General moved an instruction to the Committee, on the bill for limiting the duration of polls and fcrutinies, to add to the faid bill fome additional regulations respecting the administration of oaths at polls, and for enabling Parliament to decide the cases in which no return should be made. With regard to the nature of the oath to be taken by the electors, he proposed that it should be received in evidence of his identity, his place of abode, and of his believing himfelf to be entitled to a vote. With respect to the return of members, he was of opinion, that when no return was made, a scleet Committee of that House ought to be empowered to he dispute.

After some altercation betwixt Mr Fox and Mr. Pitt, in which Mr Sheridan, Mr Grenville, Mr Bricklat, Mr Puteney, and Sir Richard Hill took a part, the House at last came to a division, when there appeared for the Attorney-General's

The Americans appear determined to ftrengthen every prejudice against the English nation, and therefore they endea-your to distress the merchants in Boston and Charlestown, which, while it is a tacit confession of their unaptness for trade, shows the most abfurd fully, as they who deal with such merchants, and not a few prejudiced novuld-be's, are the finews of trade, and to be confidered as the American people. But let them go on; let them indulge in their prejudices, and trust to Gallic friendship!

A letter from Belgrade, dated May 28. fays, "It is affured as a fact, that Abdi Baffa, Governor of Romania, has lately raifed the standard of rebellion; and, at the head of a numerous army, levied by his two proper authority, is marching towards the capital of Bulgaria. It is faid that he had cauled to be hanged afteen Capital Balchi, whom the Sublime Porte had fent to him with the usual compliment of asking him leave to cut off his head. Addi protefts, that his rebellion is not aimed at the Grand Signior, to whom he will ever remain faithful, but for the purpose of opposing the execution of orders, given by the Minister without the participation of the Sovereign. Be this as it may, the Turkish Governor pillages every place he comes to. On his arrival at Philippoli, a town of Romania, he ordered the heads of eight of the principal inhabitants to be struck off. Some of the Magistrates, whom he leads in triumph after him, were loaded with irons, and obliged to pay feventy purfes to defray his expences."

On Saturday laft, a cause of the utmost importance to the town of Manchester was tried in the Court of King's Bench, before Mr Justice Buller. A writ of frire facias, the King against Richard Arkwright, Esq; was brought to try the validity of his cotton patent. It was objected to As not being a new invention;

As not being his invention;

As not being accompanied by a fufficient specification; and, if a new invention, and if his own invention, as being inconvenient and injurious to his Majesty's subjects, and therefore contrary to the true nature of a patent. They brought witnesses to prove that it was not a new in-ntion. They brought witnesses to prove from whom Mr Arkwright had the invention, and that it was in use before they applied for the patent. They brought witnesses to prove, that the specification which he had given in to the office of the instrument entitled the Cotton Macline, was totally insufficient to teach any mechanic how to construct it; and that therefore there was a manifest disposition in the patentee to with-hold from the public, after the expiration of his term, the benefits of the invention. Mr Arkwright brought witnesses to establish the contrary facts; but his evidence was not fatisfactory to the Jury; and after a trial of lifteen hours, they gave a verdict for the King, without three minutes confideration. trial began at nine o'clock on Saturday morning, and lafted till two on Sunday morning. Manchester has been very fortunate of late. This repeal of the patent is almost of as much importance to them as the repeal of the fullian tax.

WIND AT DEAL, JUNE 27. E. N. E.

EDINBURGH. Extrall of a letter from London, June 28. HOUSE OF LORDS.

" The House went ieto a Committee on Irish affairs, Lord, Scarfdale in the chair.

" Mr Erkine was heard in Support of the petition from the Manufacturers of Paifley, against the Irish propositions being passed into a law.

passed into a law.

"Two witnesses were severally examined for the purpose of proving, that they would greatly injure the linen trade" carried on at that place, in several important branches.

"Mr Erskine then appeared in behalf of a petition from the Manusacturers in general. He observed, that he had so often appeared at their Lordships bar, as counsel against the Irish propositions, that it would be impossible for him to advance any on the subject. He would, therefore, contains thing new on the fubject : He would, therefore, content himfelf on the present occasion with observing, that, should the Irish propositions pass, the manufacturers would emigrate to Ireland, and, having no power over them there, they would remove themselves from thence to foreign contatries, and theres by, in time, carry almost every manufactory out of this king-dom, to the great and manifest injury thereof. 'He, therefore, prayed that the Irish propositions might not pass.

"A witness, a manufacturer of glass, was then examined who, amongst many other facts, fet forth, that four perfons, employed in the glass manufactory of Mr Quinton, had been tempted to go to the Continent for the purpose of disclosing the fecrets of the art; and that two agents, who had been en ployed for that purpose, had been prosecuted, and convicted

" Another witness, a manufacturer in leather, went into a variety of inflances of the manufacturers thereof having been tempted to leave the kingdom; and, in particular, stated, that an agent had been detected in so doing, and, having been con-victed thereof, was now a prisoner in the King's Beach.

"The Duke of Richmond wished to know, how the passing the Irish propositions would hurt the manufacturers in the particular manner that had just been mentioned? or what alteration it would make?

" His Grace was informed, that, should the Irish propositions pass, the manufacturers might go to Ireland, and from thence to the Continent.

" The Duke of Richmond then asked, if that was not the case at present?

"The witness, in behalf of the learner manufacturers, re-plied by and or exactly know; they were restrained, to be sture, he faid, from emigrating to the Continent; but when they get to Ireland, he did not know that they were then under any fuch reffriction.

"The petition from the Stationers of London, against the Itish propositions, was then taken into consideration, Wells, and other witnesses, examined thereon; after which the House adjourned

HOUSE of COMMONS. " Lord Tyrconnel presented a petition against the hawkers and pedlars, praying that the bill against them may be passed into a law, which was ordered to lie on the table.

Sir Thomas Dundas presented a petition from the land-holders of Ayrshire, and also another from the landholders of Haddingtonshire, and three others of the like nature, respecting the qualification of voters at the elections of members of Parliament in Scotland.

"The Marquis of Graham faid, that if it was meant to follow the presenting the petitions with a motion for making any alteration in the qualification of voters in Scotland, he should certainly oppose their being received, unless, indeed, a more eligible regulation should be proposed than that at present in use. He therefore wished to be informed, whether the Honourable Baronet intended to make any motion for the purpole he had just mentioned, after the petitions should be received.

" Sir Thomas Dunder gave the House to understand, that he did not mean to trouble it with any motion; all he wished at pecfent was, that the petitions might he on the table, for the confideration of the members.

" Sir James Johnstone faid a few words, in which he threw out, that the voters against whom the peritions complained, had been allowed to be good ones by the Peers; and that they were now only doubted by the lawyers, for the purpofe, perhaps, of creating bufinefs.

"The petitions were then ordered to lie on the table. "The Attorney General brought in, and the House read a first time, the bill for regulating the polls and scrutinies, at the future elections of members of Parliament. It was ordered to be printed, and read a fecond time on Thursday next.

The bankrupts creditors bill, and the British plate glass manufactory Committee, were both postponed. "The House then adjourned till to-morrow."

Extract of a letter from Kilmarnock, June 28.

On Sunday evening, about five o'clock, a thatched house in Townhead of Kilmarnock, was discovered to be on fire, and in a short time the whole building, consisting of two storeys and garrets, was burnt to the ground. It presented a very alarming scene, as the street is narrow, and the houses on both sides. covered with thatch; belides, all the wells run dry, and the covered with thatch; besides, all the wells run dry, and the water had to be brought from the river; but by the exertions of the Magistrates, and application of the fire-engines, it was prevented from communicating to the adjacent houses."

Extract of a letter from Dublin, June 25.

"Mr Arkwright, the machinist of those famous works of manufacture, which give the English a superiority in every market, is now in this city, with the intention, it is said, of erecting new machinery in this kingdom, in consequence of the commercial propositions. Mr Arkwright is concerned in so many branches of manufacture, his works are so extensive, and his machinery so stupendous, that it has been afferted in the English Houle of Commons, that the circulation of capital, in which he was principal diffuser, did not fall short of 40,000 l. ser day. Some notion may be formed of this man's powerful intellects, by merely mentioning, that in his silk-throwsting intellects, by merely mentioning, that in his filk-throwiting machinery he has far out-stripped Sir Thomas Lombe, to whom Parliament, in the time of Geo. II. granted 14,000 l. as a premium for erecting a throwting machine, which contained above 100,000 movements, all worked by three men, without the least danger of difordering fach a complex production of ingenuity.

"The above engines of Sir Thomas Lombe were erected."

on the river Derwent in 1732. The whole intended for making organize or thrown filk. The work contained 26,586 wheels, which gave motion to 73,726 yards of filk, every time the water wheel went round, which was thrice in one minute, and 318,496,320 yards in the twenty-four hours; one water-wheel gave action to all the other wheels and inovements, of which any one might be flopped feparately, which was an extraordinary circumstance in mechanics. One fire-engine conveyed warm air to every individual part of it, and one regula-tor governed the whole."

Daviot, in June and October, and also a right to a weekly market.

The foil is good, and situation pleasant, in the centre of that beautiful and healthy country the Garrioch, over which there is a very fine prospect. The access is easy, the roads good; a regular post passes three times in the week, very near the mansion-house.

The farm about the house is well designed, and was improved at a large expense. It is at present all in grafs, laid down in excellent condition; the greatest part a good many years ago. No rent is put upon the mansion-house, gardens, &c. nor upon about 50 acies of ground under planting, some of it of the best quality. Nor is any value put upon the wood, consisting of Oak, Ash, Elm, Plane, Fir, &c. full grown, which are worth, and would yield immediately, a considerable sime. The young wood in the belts and planting consist of all the various forest trees reared in Scotland. rious forest trees reared in Scotland.

For the encouragement of Purchasers, the Upset Price will be only

The yearly free land rent of the premifies, is at present 2100 l. Sterling. The valued rent of the whole is 2800 l. 13 s. 4 d. Scots. The e-flate is altogether inchosed, having access to every farm by turnpike roads. It is capable of great improvement, situated in the heart of a pleasant and plentiful country, and surrounding the populous manufacturing town of Kilmannock; which, with several small estates in the neighbourhood, are held of the proprietor of this Lordship. There is an inexhaustible body of coal under the whole lands, and the proprietor has at present two coal works working to great advantage, for home consumpt, and for exportation; which may be further greatly increased.

There is also upon this estate, and near the sea port of Irvine, avery valuable blind coal, in much repute for making, and burning sime. The demand at the Irish, and other foreign markets, is very great, so that it yields at present 1200 l. Sterling per annum clear, is daily encreasing, and in the hands of persons of skill, might much exceed that sum. The country round, abounds in limestone quaries, now working, whereby, the land
